

Music by Shari Ulrich & Claire Lawrence
Lyrics by Shari Ulrich

She Remembers

She stares out the window pane
Watching the day begin
She loves how the colours change
With the dawn

Every day, every day
She watches every day slip away
Dreaming of yesterday, yesterday

She remembers what a beautiful woman
she was
And the man that she loved
In the silence after all the tears and laughter and time
She knows life has not passed her by

The music and photographs
They keep her company
She loves walking down the path to the sea

Every day, every day
She goes there every day, every day
See show she fades away
Fades away

She remembers what a beautiful woman
she was
And the man that she loved
In the silence after
all the tears and laughter and time
She knows life has not passed her by

She stares out the window pane
Watching the night fall
She loves how the colours change
With the dusk

Every day, every day
She watches every day slip away
Dreaming of yesterday, yesterday

She remembers what a beautiful woman
she was
And the man that she loved
In the silence after
all the tears and laughter and time
She knows life has not passed her by