

Stand

They're standing on the corners
Marching in the rain
They shout what they believe in
And they lead the way to change

Some think it won't make any difference
That nobody's listening
But centuries of people speaking their minds
Has proven time and time again

(You've got to) Stand and let your voice be heard
You can believe in the power of your words
Stand and let your voice be heard

Some are born to silence
To slip through life unchanged
They leave no path behind them
And they look the other way

But some are born to courage
To take life face to face
They cannot turn their backs on the world
And the things that must be changed

(You've got to) Stand and let your voice be heard
You can believe in the power of your words
Stand and let your voice be heard

(Bridge)
Stand...stand together
Stand up...and right what's wrong
Stand...with your hands together
Stand and let your voice be strong

(You've got to) Stand and let your voice be heard
You can believe in the power of your words
Stand and let your voice be heard
